Police Trekets Get Husbands To Work

MADISON HEIGHTS, Mich. — During a cleanup campaign, Patrolman John Reese ticketed 14 homeowners for allowing trash to pile up around their homes.

He was back a week later to check up on results, and was greeted with profuse thanks from some grateful housewives. One explained:

"I've been trying to get my yard for years, and your ticket got me going. Now can you give him a ticket so he'll paint the house."

Many Die As Holiday Draws To A Close Over The Nation

By UNITED PRESS

The nation opened a new year today with what appeared to be an exceptionally good traffic safety record.

Fatality reports indicated that there had been a hard lesson learned from the Christmas holiday period, when 712 persons were killed.

United Press tabulations showed that traffic fatalities at 10 a.m. EST since the holiday could be as low as 4.5 per 100 million.

On the basis of the National Safety Council's figures, the traffic deaths rate for the first 10 days of the year was 4.5 per 100 million.

IF YOU LIKE BOOKS, YOU'LL LOVE

THIS NEW IDEA

The Printed Power Book Store, a Murray, Ky. owned and operated firm, has conceived a revolutionary idea in the book club field. A Book Club which will allow you to select the books you want (not the books someone else wants you to read), and to purchase every one of them at a substantial savings.

Mail order, book-club office, you purchase from 37¢ to 4¢ books, or more, as you wish. They want you to buy, and at a cost of $1.00 to over $25.00 (plus postage in most cases) and you must agree to a year's membership in advance. The Printed Power Book Store gives you the advantage of selecting your books (Best Sellers, Fiction, the short story, biography, local, Book Store, and Non-Fiction, even a good Bible, etc.) from off the shelves of the book store you want, and you will get a for you dealer and you will get a for you dealer and you will get a for you dealer.

SPECIAL NOTE TO PARENTS

Your children may love this Book Club with your permission. Membership in it will permit them to purchase books for school reports, etc.; to build up a personal library; and will instill in them the true value of reading good books. We are particularly stocking books recommended by teachers in the City and County School Systems to fill the need for these types of children's books.

Club Membership will allow you to purchase at least ELEVEN books a year, for as little as $9.68

MEMBERSHIP RULES

1. Each member must agree to purchase one book each month as long as membership is retained. Each book will be sold at a retail selling price of 50% less than the retail selling price of the book.
2. Club Membership Rate of 12% off retail selling price will be given on any one book in the member's choice, each month (first book excepted).
3. Failure to comply with rule 1 will result in membership being terminated, however, a one month grace period will be allowed each year.
4. Members reserve the right to resign anytime after the first month membership.
5. Former members must wait six months before being able to rejoin after resignation or dismissal.

SILENT RIVER

By WAYNE ROBERTS

© 1956, Doubleday & Co., Inc., publishers of the new novel. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

The cheap women in the Red Cattle; men from the water front with either steel blade or pistol. But Stinger had reached the point where the easy things were not enough. He wanted his own house instead of the rooms he occupied on Garrison Avenue, a wife and children. And more than anything else, he wanted to be welcomed on every level of society. Elizabeth, better than any other young woman in St. Louis, fitted his requirements for a wife. Near the end of May he called at the Tipton house. When Nero opened the door, he asked, "Is the General in?"

"No, sir," Nero said. "The General probably won't be home for an hour. Will you come in and wait?"

Stinger hesitated, then asked, "Is Miss Elizabeth home?"

"I could like to speak with her if she is," Nero said.

"She's in her room," Nero said. "I'll call her."

Stinger waited in the hall. Elizabeth appeared at the head of the stairs, calling, "Why, Alvin, this is a pleasant surprise. She started to run down the stairs, but stopped when Stinger held up a hand. He said, "Stand there, Elizabeth, right where you are."

She was wearing a light summer dress of blue organdie with pink roses on the bouffant, and just as she had started down the stairs he had glimpsed her slender legs and trim ankles. By sheer coincidence, she stopped where the sunlight, falling through a stained-glass window in the west wall, laid its myriad colors upon her so that she gave the startling effect of being part of a rainbow.

"What is it, Alvin?" she asked. He took a deep breath. "You're beautiful, Elizabeth, as beautiful as a fairy floating to earth on a rainbow."

He laughed. "Come on down. I just had to stop you there and take a long look."

He saw that she was both pleased and a little flustered by what he had said. When she reached the hall, she said, "Thank you, Alvin. That was a nice thing to say."

He took her arm and, turning her, pointed to where the sunlight fell on the wall. "That's where you were. You see why I thought you were floating down a rainbow."

She drew away from him, and he knew he had made a mistake. He knew he had made a mistake.

Air Force Women Do Not Favor Jets

By ROBERT E. CRENNEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONOLULU — America's women are discouraging their men from flying the wild blue yonder as jet pilots, and the Air Force admits that the situation is hurting its recruiting efforts.

"Women seem to be against having their men in the Air Force," said Col. Barney Oldfield, chief of information services for the vast Continental Air Defense Command. "Mothers feel that jets are dangerous, and wives have the idea and air base is no place to raise a family."

Sometimes the gals seem to be an immovable block to get around. But the author-airman thinks he has found a way to side-step the gal radio and TV broadcasters.

The Air Force is going to great lengths to sell the jet life to a good wife.

Safety Increased

"We're taking them for rides, even through the sonic barrier," said Oldfield. "That way they are reassured that jets aren't dangerous, so they reassure mama, who listens to them."

Colonel Oldfield, in an interview, contended jets are safer than propeller-driven planes, and he has the figures to prove it. The accident rate has gone steadily down as the Air Force has steadily replaced conventional aircraft with jets, he said.

In 1955, the Continental Air Defense Command had 500,000 takeoffs and landings, he said. "The accident rate was 18 accidents per 100,000 hours of flying day and night, good weather and bad."

In 1951, long before there were jets, the rate was 467 accidents per 100,000 flying hours. Jet flying is safe, he said, because ground crews are so highly trained to keep planes in top mechanical condition and pilots are so highly trained against human error.

Kids Love Comfort

"We spend $14,000 to $20,000 to train a mechanic before he can touch a jet plane."

"We invest $70,000 to $100,000 in a pilot before he even takes the controls of one of these planes. In contrast, a kid can fix up a jalopy to go 70 miles an hour and drive it before he learns how to drive, and mama doesn't think anything about it."

The colonel explained that there is another reason besides female pressure why youngsters aren't as eager to fly as they were 10 or 15 years ago.

"We had a hungrier group of kids in the 1930s," he said. "Now they are a comfort-loving lot. To get to be an aviation cadet in the 1930s was a real struggle. Also there's the cold war."

"It is never as popular to fight to prevent a war as it is to fight a war, but all the money spent to prevent one is well spent, no matter how economically we could fight one."

Office Relaxation Is Recommended

CHICAGO — The business man who spends part of each day with his feet on his desk has the right idea but isn't carrying it far enough, a furniture engineer said today.

What the busy executive really needs, Lawrence L. Morton said, is to take the kinks out of his spine by relaxing in a reclining chair.

Morton said busy executives become tension-bound and need occasional "rest breaks" to avoid later exhaustion.

"Sitting and reclining for these short periods takes a strain off the heart," he said, "as it reduces the work the heart must do to pump blood back from the toes."

Ideally, he said, it would be nice to have every office equipped with a sofa which would open into a bed. But he said a reclining chair which will support the head and legs and cushion the body is "the most that can be expected" in most offices today.

Miss Barbara Tucker And Dale Barnett Are Wed In Ceremony At Elm Grove Church

Mrs. Dale Barnett

Miss Barbara Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Wicker, became the bride of Dale Barnett on Saturday evening, December 22, in a candlelight ceremony at the Elm Grove Baptist Church. Rev. Leonard Cole, minister of the First Baptist Church of Eddyville, performed the double ring ceremony. The sanctuary was decorated with gladiolus blooms interspersed in a background of greenery. On either side of the altar were branched candelabra holding burning white tapers. Large baskets of white chrysanthemums completed the altar setting and the family pews were marked with white bows. Preceding the ceremony, a program of musical music was presented by Miss Wilma Boyd, soloist; and Mrs. Thyra Crawford, pianist. Miss Boyd sang "Because" by deHardeston and "O Promise Me" by deKoven. The pianist's selections included "Sweetest Story Ever Told" by Stults, "Serenade" by Romberg, and the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length wedding dress of white Chantilly lace over net and satin. The dress featured a scalloped neckline and full-length sleeves which buttoned with satin-covered buttons and came to points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was gathered to a white satin cap. She carried a bouquet of white tube roses centered with a white orchid with satin streamers tied in love knots.

Mrs. Becky Ray was matron of honor. Her dress of white faille was fashioned with a princess waist and three quartered length sleeves. She carried a bouquet of blue tinted carnations tied with blue satin streamers. Her headpiece was of blue-tinted feathered carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ann Falwell, wore a dress of white faille, identical in design to that of the honor attendant. She also had a bouquet and headpiece of blue tinted carnations.

Don Gibbs served as bestman. The ushers were Bill Harrell, Max Barnett, and Gary Wicker. Lighting the candles were Mrs. Norma Harrell and Miss Betty Stamps. Each wore a white dress with a blue tinted corsage.

Mrs. Wicker wore for her daughter's wedding a beige suit with brown accessories and a corsage of baby orchids. Following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip with the bride wearing a blue ensemble with the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

DOUBLE WATCH

MECHANIC FALLS, Me. — Mothers in this small community can volunteer for duty in the Ground Observer Corps without worrying about hiring baby sitters. Ernest Manchester, local civil defense director, built a playground complete with swings, slide and sandbox next to the plane-spotting post so mothers can watch both the skies and their young ones.

Kinsley, Kans., is exactly halfway between New York and San Francisco, 1728 miles each way.

Miss Joyce Bizzell Becomes Bride Of James Ray Haley

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Bizzell announce the marriage of their youngest daughter, Joyce, to James Ray Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Haley.

The double ring ceremony was read in Corinth, Miss., on Saturday, December 22.

The bride chose to wear for her wedding a light blue sheath dress of Cashmere lace over taffeta with a light blue hat and other accessories in black. Her corsage was of feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Waldrop wore a black velvet sheath dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Haley is a graduate of Almo High School in the class of 1956. Mr. Haley also attended Almo High School and served two years with the U.S. Army.

The couple will reside in Evansville, Ind., where Mr. Haley is employed by the Selgers Refrigeration Company.

A wedding dinner for the families of the couple was given by the bride's parents at their home in Almo on Sunday evening, December 23. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. James Fattrell and daughters, Sandra, Miss Betty Bizzell, Miss Mary Nell Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Haley, the honored couple, and the hosts.

WRONG PARTY

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. — Hitchhiker Herbert F. Nelson of Suffield, tossed an overripe cucumber at a motorist who declined to give him a ride. The motorist stopped and took Nelson to a police station. Nelson was fined $15 for throwing objects at an auto and soliciting a ride. The driver was off-duty policeman Larry Clancy.

Tampa's Peter O'Knight airport is one of the few in this country where air runway approaches are made over water.

Miss Williams & Max Eugene Rogers Married At Church

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Williams of Farmington announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Elaine, to Max Eugene Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rogers of Murray.

The double ring ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Lynn Grove Methodist Church at four o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, December 2, by Rev. Hoyt Owen.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Pat Owen presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride wore a satin brocade street length dress fashioned at a princess style, with a low rounded neckline. She wore a small white hat and her corsage was of white roses.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rogers. Mrs. Rogers wore a brown knitted dress. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony the couple left for an unannounced wedding trip. They are now residing in Murray where the bride is attending college.
